

Navigation from the anatomical stemless to the reverse fracture prosthesis

Shoulder Compass

31st March 2026 | 09:00 – 16:00

Johnson & Johnson AG
Luzernstrasse 21
4528 Zuchwil

Course Overview

This course provides thorough training in shoulder arthroplasty, with an emphasis on stemless anatomical, reverse elective, and reverse fracture prostheses.

Participants will benefit from a blend of hands-on presentations, clinical experiences and exercises using anatomical specimens, all designed to deepen their understanding of implant options and enhance their practical skills.

Target Group

This course is aimed at orthopedic surgeons who wish to deepen their knowledge and practical skills in shoulder arthroplasty.

Learning Objectives

- Conveying current evidence and clinical experiences in shoulder arthroplasty, with a special focus on reverse fracture prosthetics.
- Practical application of various prosthetic treatment options, including re-fixation of the tubercles in the fracture situation.
